LEAGUERS.

If you want to see one of the livest groups of young people in the county and want to become inspired among so many of the best of the youth of Collin, then be in Wylie, in Southeast Collin, Friday, Saturday and Sunday of this week—May 18, 19 and 20—for the annual quarterly meeting of the McKinney District Epworth League, Methodist church. Several from McKinney and other points in this county and district are making their plans to attend all, or part of the sessions from Friday to Sunday. McKinney has some excellent Epworth Leagues in the two Methodist churches here that are doing an important work in training young people of their church. S. S. Spearman of Melissa is president of the District Epworth League.

ADMIRABLY LOCATED.

"McKinney and Collin are admirably connected up with life outside world," said a visitor the other day, who was passing through the city. "Your paved roads and improved highways, your interurbans, busses, railway lines, and with a large portion of the citizenship owning automobiles, make it easy to reach other parts of the state within a short time." McKinney and Collin county are situated in the midst of the richest agricultural section in the state. We're satisfied to live here. If we were not, we would make other arrangements.

A RECORD.

A exemplary record has been made by the Central Presbyterian church in this city, of which Dr. E. O. Whitwell is the faithful and well-liked pastor. That church, for the five Sundays in April, has had an average attendance of 179 out of a church membership of 225. Dr. Whitwell, speaking for his church, has issued a challenge to all other Sunday schools of the city to an attendance contest. His contest plan is an admirable one, to be based on percentage, and should create greater interest in the churches of our city.

THE McKINNEY FLOAT.

McKinney and Collin county citizens will be pleased to learn that, according to tentative plans, the McKinney float, decorated by Tully B. Lucas, that won first prize in the Etex Chamber of Commerce parade in Greenville, will be seen in the parade opening the annual Collin County Ex-Confederates and Old Settler's Picnic and Reunion. The same young ladies, including Miss Florence Dorcas Perkins and her retinue of duchesses, will ride on the float—only this time Miss Perkins will be the Collin county queen and her retinue will be princesses. There were many local citizens who failed to go to Greenville to see the parade; hence, they will receive with much joy the news that they will see an exact reproduction of the prize-winning float in Greenville.

RAIN

A rain and windstorm, which took on the aspect of a young twister, swept McKinney and vicinity about 9 o'clock Tuesday night. A second rain visited this section between 12 and 1 o'clock. The rainfall amounted to .85 of an inch, according to E. Pearl Skelton, local volunteer government weather observer.

Although no serious damage was done in McKinney, yet many limbs from trees were blown out into the streets and, in a few instances, half-grown trees were blown over by the impact of the wind that accompanied the rain.

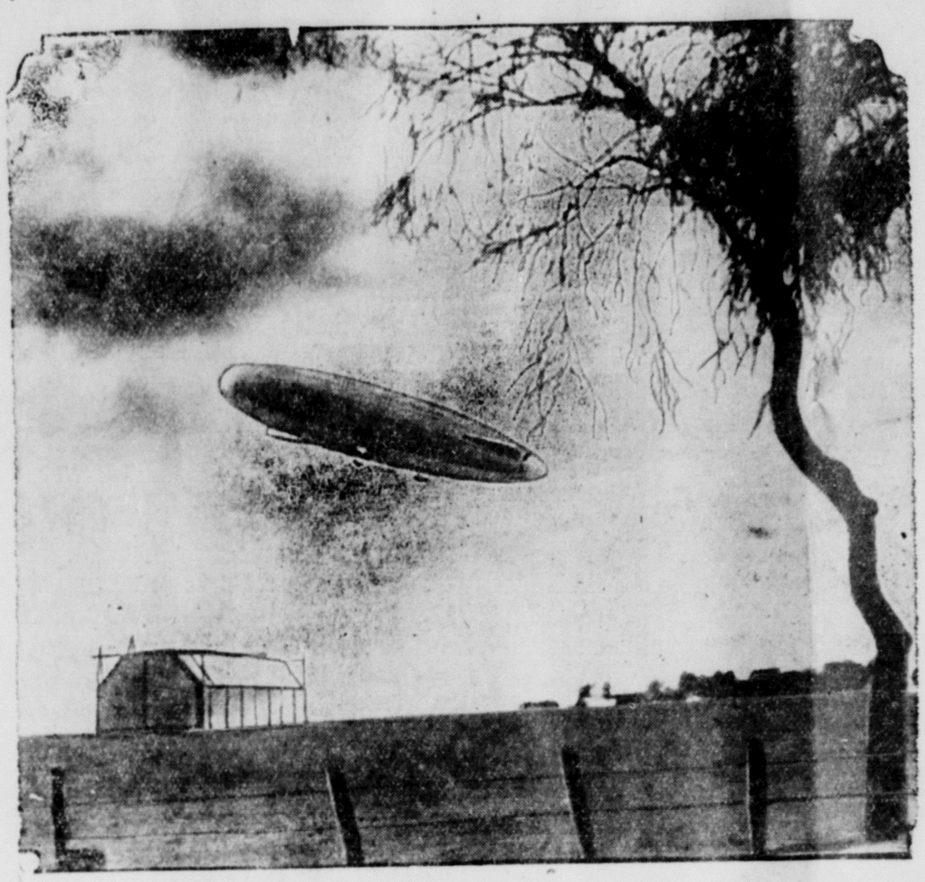
The wind was heaviest, perhaps, West of McKinney, visitors from that section in the city Wednesday stating that the roofs of several barns and outhouses were blown away, and other smaller buildings blown off blocks.

According to the views of some farmers here today, the rain was not needed. Farmers need, more than anything else, some fair weather so they can work out their crops.

Rev. E. H. Holmes of Austin is a guest of Eld. and Mrs. R. C. Horn, Rev. Holmes being a son-in-law of Eld. Horn.

Hon. Hamp Abney, prominent Sherman attorney, was here today on legal matters.

NOBILE POLAR FLIGHT LEAVES FROM KINGS BAY



The giant dirigible "Italia" is reported on its way on a reconnaisance flight over the Polar regions. General Nobile intends to fly over the Pole and then go to Lenin Land, according to reports from Copenhagen. Nobile had not intended to go so soon, but reports of a Russian expedition having started caused him to revise his plans and hop off immediately.

Police Force May Be Called Out In Next Baseball Game Between McKinney Lions and Rotarians

With another baseball game assured between the Lions and Rotarians and with the Rotarians maintaining perfect confidence in their ability to repeat the winning performance of a few days ago and the Lions going into the fray determined to cop the game, it may be necessary to call out the police in order to assure order and that the game will be played the necessary number of innings.

The Lions' pitcher is said to be right as a silver fox, and that means, they say, that the Lions will win. The Lions hitters are going to murder the horsehide. They are engaging in daily practice for the game and will be ready to meet the enemy.

The Rotarians are going to play the same team they overwhelmed the Lions with recently and are supremely confident of victory again. They assert, in fact, the game is already won, and declare it is useless to play again, but are going to do so out of respect to the Lions.

The date for the game has not been decided upon, but will probably be one day next week.

POULTRY MEN SPEAK OF RECENT TRIP TO MEXICO

DR. R. A. LARGENT AND FITZHUGH NEWSOME ADDRESS COUNTY ASSOCIATION.

Dr. R. A. Largent and Fitzhugh Newsome both gave very interesting talks on their recent trip to Mexico City before the last meeting of the Collin county Poultry Association held in the McKinney Chamber of Commerce.

Dr. Largent went to Mexico City by special invitation as a guest of the government of that republic, who advised with him on matters relating to the development of the poultry industry throughout Mexico. Dr. Largent has attained a large measure of success in recent years in the poultry and hatchery business in McKinney. As a result of this reputation established, the Mexican government desired his counsel relating to the fostering of the industry to a greater extent in that republic. It is probable that Dr. Largent will again return to Mexico City this summer on a similiar mission to confer with the leaders of the poultry industry of that nation. Mrs. Newsome accompanied her husband and Dr. Largent on the trip.

Dr. Largent states that the largest flock of poultry that he saw anywhere consisted of not more than 166 hens. Dr. Largent is of the opinion that the climate and country in most parts of Mexico are well adapted to the poultry industry which the government seems determined now to have developed as fast as it can be accomplished.

MRS. E. L. BURTON RESIGNS AS HEAD LITTLE THEATER

IS SUCCEEDED IN THAT POSITION BY MRS. EUGENE CROUCH.

At a meeting of the McKinney Little theater held this week in the home of Mrs. E. L. Burton, who has served as president of that local group since its organization here over a year ago, Mrs. Burton tendered her resignation. Mrs. Eugene Crouch, vice president, was made president and will serve in that important capacity in the future. Mrs. Mary Francis Allbright will serve as vice president of the organization.

Other officers include Mrs. Mary Wilcox Oswalt, secretary; and Franklin Houston, treasurer. Mrs. Chas. Waide is chairman of the producing committee and all those who would like to try out or have a part in a Little theater play, should register their names with her. New members to the organization will be gladly welcomed.

The Little theater regrets the resignation of Mrs. Burton as head of that group which already has such an admirable start here. She has worked hard and served diligently in an effort to get the organization functioning properly and to her, perhaps, more than to any other one person should go the praise for the excellent manner in which our own Little theater has started.

Her successor, Mrs. Eugene Crouch, is also prominent in all affairs of the Little theater here and is ever ready to do whatever she can for its advancement. No work is too great or too difficult for her, if it is beneficial to the Little theater. She has appeared, like Mrs. Burton, in one of the plays here. But, whether in the play or not, she will always be found behind the scenes working for the success of the group.

Mrs. Crouch expects to call a meeting of the Little Theater within the next few days, she says.

Miss Bernice Adams is attending a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Texas Power and Light Employees Benefit Association in Dallas today.

The fire boys were soon on the scene and extinguished the flames, which, however, had done considerable damage to the structure before they arrived. Part of the household effects were carried to safety. The amount of insurance if any, could not be learned.

UP-TOWN ICE STATION OPEN FOR BUSINESS

SOUTHLAND ICE CO. STATION LOCATED WITHIN 1 BLOCK OF SQUARE.

The up-town ice service station of the Southland Ice Co. is now open for business. It is located at the corner of West Virginia and Church streets and is a building of pleasing architectural design and lends beauty to that portion of the business section of the city.

Charles Bridgefarmer, a well-known young business man of the city, is in charge of the station. It will open daily at 6 a. m. and close at 9 p. m. except on Saturdays when it will remain open until 10 p. m. On Sundays the station will be closed from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m. Dan Scott, local manager of the Southland Ice Co. announced.

The price of ice will be the same as at the platform at the factory.

Mr. Scott announced that the lot which the station occupies will be further beautified and it is his intention to make the place a beauty spot of the city.

The policy of the Southland Ice Co. is, above all things, courtesy and service and it was with that idea in view of improving the service and adding to the convenience of patrons of the company that the ice service station was established up-town, although the expense connected with the erection of the station was considerable.

The Southland Ice Co. is running a series of advertisements in The Daily Courier-Gazette calling attention to features of their service to which attention of readers is directed.

OLD TIME FOX AND WOLF CHASES AGAIN IN COLLIN

PIONEER DAY SPORT BEING REVIVED IN A LIMITED WAY

John Curry, who lives on the old homestead of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snider near Bloomdale, has recently suffered some losses among his chickens and other poultry from the depredations of the wild fox. For many years our county has had very few wild fox in it on account of the thick settlement of almost every portion of the county. But it is claimed that old love for the wild fox chase still prevails in the hearts of some of our county residents, resulting in the importation of some of the little animals for breeding purposes and restocking them in a small way in our county. As a result, some fox chasing is again being enjoyed in some localities. The fox has multiplied to some extent in the Bloomdale-Walnut Grove-Franklin school house communities. The red and the gray foxes are the favorite wild animals for the chase. A few fox hunters still own some trained hounds for the purpose. Some wolves have also been seen and chased and perhaps one or more have been killed in recent weeks in West Collin.

It is believed that the flooding of Big Elm, filling the Dallas Lake dam with water has caused the wolves to leave the bottoms and come out eastward through different parts of West Collin.

SHERIFF SEALE OF DALLAS DIED EARLY WEDNESDAY

UNCLE OF MRS. O. F. FOSTER, WEST ERWIN STREET, THIS CITY.

No man's pie is freed from his ambitious finger.—Shakespeare.

Our friend across the way wants to know if Platonic friendship is love in cold storage.

Sometimes we become tired of another talking about himself simply because we want a chance to tell the world about ourownselves.

Somewhere we have read that a true definition of "jail" was a place where those who take things easy can't take things easy.

Birthdays are all right, says the office flapper, until one reaches twenty-five or thereabouts; but after that they are to be forgotten.

Let's resolve now to make the annual Collin county fair here this fall the greatest in the history of the organization.

One thing the young man always finds out, when he sets out in the business world, is that there's plenty of grease on each rung of the ladder leading to success.

The lad who works every Saturday and is busy during the vacation season is going to be heard from in the future. He is made of the stuff that wins success in the business world. Such young men win posts of leadership while the indifferent class are lost in the struggle and must fill positions of minor importance.

The keynote of the Nineteenth Biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs is: "The Fine Art living, making the Federation Function in daily life." All sessions will be held at the Municipal Auditorium, San Antonio, Texas, May 28 to June 7, inclusive.

We notice that it is planned to provide an additional transatlantic telephone circuit to supplement the present circuit and to care for the continued growth in the usuage of the trans-oceanic telephone service which has been sharpty accelerated by the recent rate reductions. During the month of April, the number of calls completed over the present channel between America and Europe represented an increase of 55 per cent of the preceding month and of 650 per cent over April 1927. A tract of land comprising about 456 acres has been assembled by purchase and lease in the Northwestern part of the state of New Jersey. Here it is planned to establish in the near future a short wave receiving station which together with the American Telephone and Telegraph company's sending station at Deal Beach, N. J., and similar stations at similar installations at Great Britain, will provide an additional circuit for transatlantic calls. Sufficient property has been secured to provide for possible future expansion."

EDITORIAL CLIPPINGS

A SINCLAIRIZED SYSTEM.

Now that the late-lamented Sinclair trial has slipped far enough into the past for us to look at it in the proper perspective, it might be a good thing for us to study it, as a scientist would study some strange bug he had found in his test tube and see what it means.

It has been said, for instance, that it means that America can not convict a man with a million dollars; that our jury system is a failure, and that the government can not possibly gain a conviction in the District of Columbia.

Are these the real meanings of the famous trial? On the surface, it looks as if they are. Yet a little thought will disclose another portent underlying all of these secondary indications; a thing more dismaying than these, calling for prompt, drastic action.

Our court machinery, it would seem, is almost hopelessly complicated. It defeats its own end. A major criminal trial loses sight of its real function, which is to determine the guilt or innocence of the accused party; it becomes a game conducted according to elaborate, intricate rules, which no layman can ever quite comprehend. In the Sinclair case the prosecution was not allowed to introduce certain vital evidence not because that evidence had no bearing on the question of Sinclair's guilt or innocence, but because its introduction would have been contrary to the rules of the game.

Under these rules Sinclair was not required to utter one word of explanation and defense; more, the jury was not even permitted to hold his silence against him. The jury was not allowed to know what the supreme court thought of the whole mess. After the trial, one juror admitted his amazement to read in the newspapers facts which were never presented in court.

What does all of this mean—if not that our legal machinery is crying to heaven for revision? Can any other interpretation possibly be placed on it? Is it not time we stopped considering a criminal trial a fascinating game for high-priced lawyers and made it a trustworthy process for settling the question of a man's guilt or innocence?

The lawyers of the country would seem to have a responsibility in the matter. Through their bar associations they wield a great influence on the laws that govern court procedure. Can not they speak out and begin working for a change? Or is the game, as now conducted, more lucrative than it might be if simplified?

That is the real issue brought up by the Sinclair trial. After all, Teapot Dome has been returned to the government. Fall has quit the cabinet. Sinclair, if not in jail, has at least had an unpleasant time of it of late. If his acquittal will serve to shake up our criminal court processes, and unbind the cords that fetter the arm of justice, the country, after all, will have gained something.—Paris Morning News.

TEN DISTINGUISHED FARMERS WILL BE HONORED IN 1928

The advanced farm practices, good business methods and valuable citizenship of ten outstanding Texas farmers will win for them the singular distinction of being designated as Master Farmers of 1928. This marks the third year of the Master Farmer movement in Texas, which is conducted jointly by the Progressive Farmer and the Texas A. & M. college. Thirty farmers have received the award of Master Farmer during the past two years and they, along with their state association, will become affiliated with the National Master Farmer group which meets at Urbana, Illinois, June 19 and 20. The plan for honoring outstanding farmers after they have been selected on the basis of a complete score card has become a national farm movement. These contests have been conducted in 20 states by farm papers and the agricultural colleges for a threefold purpose. First, it is desired by these organizations to recognize the achievements of the best farmers in the various states. These men are proven leaders of their profession and this honor comes to them without their seeking it. Secondly, for the purpose of securing the most reliable information on profitable farm practices, a thorough analysis is made of the methods made use of by these farmers. The third purpose is to recount the experiences and methods of the individuals among this distinguished group for the benefit of agriculture as a whole. In every case where Master Farmers are selected there are certain very definite reasons for the success of that family. His success should serve as a guide and a challenge to the thousands of other farm residents in the state who are striving to improve their conditions.

Prominent among the items that values are assigned to on the score card are the maintenance of soil fertility through crop rotation, legumes, terracing and fertilizers. The quality of farm crops, livestock and poultry and the production gained from each, business methods and ability, appearance and upkeep of farm and home, adequancy and convenience of the home, school of children, family relationship and citizenship.

Nominations into the contest are made by the county agricultural agents and after a preliminary elimination, members of the state committee along with the Associate Editor of The Progressive Farmer will visit the best entries in each of the Extension districts for the purpose of making an additional detailed study of the farms. Members of the state committee are T. O. Walton, president of A. & M. College, O. B. Martin, director of Extension, H. H. Williamson, State Agent, A. B. Conner, Director of the Experiment Station, Dean E. J. Kyle of the School of Agriculture, Miss Mildred Horton, State Home Demonstration Agent, Miss Bess Edwards, Assistant State Home Demonstration Agent, Eugene Butler, Editor for the Progressive Farmer, and Paul Huey, Associate Editor of The Progressive Farmer.

The Master Farmers will be honored late in the year at a banquet given in their honor at Dallas. Stories of their success will be published in their local papers and in The Progressive Farmer.

"Ten—Two and Four" Are Magic Words in Mysterious New Club

Prominent Doctor Says Drinks Will Be on Him if Club Doesn't Enroll Best Citizenship, Not Excepting Sheriff, Ministers and County Attorney

Following closely the story published yesterday regarding rumors of a "drinking club" being organized here comes information through underground channels that the "password" has leaked out. From where or whom the information comes cannot be learned, but it is passing from lip to lip with amazing rapidity. Those "in the know" are seen to wink wisely at fellow conspirators and whisper "ten, two, four."

DOC HIMSELF [NOT A MOVIE]

Conjectures as to the meaning of the words are rife. Some hazard the guess that it is merely a set of arbitrary numbers like the combination of a safe, which are to be whispered at the iron-barred door as the "open sesame" to the club. Others contend that the numbers when added together total sixteen and that sixteen is a hotel room or street number of the club headquarters.

Whatever is the significance of the "pass-word," it will undoubtedly have to be changed, if non-members are to be prevented from taking advantage of it. Too much wise talk seems to have already made it pretty much public property.

A man by the name of D. I. Spenser was found today who admits a direct connection with the "prominent Doctor" who is said to be the organizer. Spenser is firm in the belief that under the unique plan, the club can be operated without interference from the law. He promised that full details of the proposed plan will be forthcoming within the next few days.—Advertisement.

A physician who reaches out to benefit humanity leaves a record behind him that is worth while. Such a man was Dr. R. V. Pierce. His study along medical lines, and his knowledge of the remedial qualities of herbs and plants led to the discovery of his wonderful herbal remedy, Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is just the tonic required if a woman is borne down by pain and sufferings at regular or irregular intervals, by nervousness or dizzy spells, headache or backache Favorite Prescription can be had in tablet form as well as liquid at your neighborhood store.

Little Talks On Thrift

S. W. Straus, President
American Society for Thifft

Every business concern keeps a strict account of every penny received and spent, and any firm or corporation which did not do so would soon go into bankruptcy.

In principle, the same should apply to individuals. Lack of system, while it may not lead to failure or ruin, is a great detriment to our progress.

Carelessness in small things leads to carelessness in larger affairs and likewise the careful handling of small amounts of money fits one for the greater and larger responsibilities of life.

One of our most successful business men has said: "Early in life, when a poor boy, I formed the habit of jotting down a record of every penny I spent. This taught me the value of system and frugality. I soon found myself able to save a little money. As I grew I developed habits of general thrift from this simple beginning, and, with a small amount of capital thus available when I reached the age of maturity, I was able to take advantage of opportunities that led to subsequent success."

A few pennies or a few dollars wasted here and there do not seem to amount to much at the time they are spent, but when you see the record of these extravagances in cold figures they assume their true proportions and significance.

If you are endeavoring to get ahead in the world you will find that by the adoption of a budget system your success in thrift will be made doubly easy and you will soon be surprised at the difference these systematic practices make in the amount of your savings.

NAT'L. EXPERIMENT FARM ELECTRICITY WILL BE STARTED

Announcement was made today that there will be inaugurated at once in the immediate vicinity of Washington an experimental and demonstration rural electrification project, national in character and co-operative in its organization.

While experimental rural electric investigations have been in progress for several years in a number of states this proposed national undertaking will be carried out on a far more elaborate scale than anything hitherto attempted and is expected to produce results valuable to agriculture throughout the United States and for that matter all the rest of the civilized world.

The undertaking is to be known as the National Rural Electric Project. It is conceived as a result of a mutual desire on the part of farmers the electric industry, the United States Department of Agriculture, and agricultural colleges to see power company service extended more generally into the farm districts and applied to farm home and agricultural tasks so as to increase production, or cut labor costs, or both—in short, to electrify the farm factory the same as electricity has transformed urban industries.

The general program calls first for an exhibition building on the grounds of the agricultural college of the University of Maryland at College Park which is on national highway Number One within a few miles of the City of Washington. In this building there will be installed exhibits showing the nature of the experiments in progress on the national projuect, also exhibits characteristic of the experiments now in progress in some twenty-four states.

* * *

Where Millions Pass.

Several million automobiles pass the site of this proposed building each year, many of them carrying farmers en route to or from the national capitol. This strategic location of the exhibition building is considered important because to make the application of electricity to agriculture a success it is necessary that farmers everywhere should acquaint themselves with the multiplicity of chores which electricity can perform for the farm family.

Nearby within easy driving distance there will be picked a community to represent the main base of the experiments to be undertaken. It will consist of six or eight farms, if possible all in one cluster, and representing a number of different types of Maryland farming.

In addition to these, for the sake of some experiments under contemplation, two or more individual farms within a comparatively short distance of this community will be added to the undertaking.

In all these farm homes there will be installed electrically operated domestic equipment calculated to shorten the hours of labor and lighten the burden of drudgery for farm women. There also will be installed motor driven equipment which has proved practical in other states in lightening the burden of the farm, cutting labor costs and increasing production. Among these are water pumping, feed grinding, ensilage cutting, threshing, henhouse lighting, wood sawing, milking, separating, churning and fruit sorting.

VEGETABLES IN DAILY MENU

DENTON, Texas, May 16.—By a wise choice of vegetables and by proper combinations with other foods, a well-balanced dinner may consist almost entirely of vegetables, and the menus prepared for the week by members of the household arts department of the College of Industrial Arts include several such meals. Vegetables of different types should be included: a starchy vegetable, one high in protein and one or two succulent vegetables should be selected. The addition of some fat or fat meat not only increases the food value, but makes the meal more satisfying in character.

TIDWELL'S

RELATING TO FOUR QUEENS

By WILSON WATERS
International Illustrated News Staff Correspondent.

Four queens! A good hand to hold—whether in poker or international politics.

That was the well-formulated plan of Queen Marie of Roumania until fate forced her to accept defeat.

Early in her married career as the consort of the late King Ferdinand, Marie of Roumania visualized her three baby daughters grown to womanhood as wives of Balkin kings.

The nightly bedtime tales she recited to her attentive wide-eyed children as they could against her in the romantic tower of her Carpathian mountain palace, had the moral of peace—the happy time when there would no longer be terrible and costly wars.

The oldest child, Marie, fulfilled the first step in the royal plan when she was married to King Alexander of Yugoslavia.

Following closely came the love match that made Elizabeth, Queen Marie's second daughter, the royal mate of George II, King of Greece.

Success, it seemed was to reward the plans of the Roumanian monarch. But one link was open, and one daughter—Ileana, the most beautiful of the three princesses was coming of age to complete the chain of queens.

Greece, Yugoslavia and Roumania, the three most powerful of the Balkan States, were now united in matrimony by their rulers. Proud, indeed, and very happy was the beautiful queen-mother as she surveyed the "League of Queens" developing under her direction in Eastern Europe's war-torn peninsula.

Diplomatic gossip began to unite the youngest Roumanian princess with Boris, the bachelor King of Bulgaria.

Denials came from the palace in Bucharest, but they were feeble in their tenor. It was assured so European diplomats thought that Ileana would marry Boris of Bulgaria, and so compelte the royal hand of four Balkin queens—a mother and three daughters.

It was a brilliant plan to present as a means of promulgating peace in the Balkans. The League of Nations at Geneva watched with curious eyes the progress of Marie's royal matings.

But then, just as this League of Queens appeared to be reaching the perfection so keenly desired, old man fate stepped in to cause a royal crash that echoed over Europe.

A revolt occurred in Greece, civil war prevailed, and when the smoke had cleared away young King George and his Roumanian wife Elizabeth were on a boat steaming up the Black sea as exiles.

That was the first hitch. The second came when Boris of Bulgaria refused to give up his bachelor state. He made it plain that when he married, his bride would be of his own choice. Diplomacy, leagues, and politics would not enter into the queenly selection. His marriage would be only for love.

As a last blow at the "League of Queens," King Ferdinand of Roumania died and his grandson, the infant King Michael, was raised to the throne.

Queen Marie herself became only a member of the Regency formed to act as the baby monarch's advisory council.

Of her three daughters, Ileana is still single, and Elizabeth remains in exile, an ex-queen. Only Marie retains her throne as the wife of the Yugoslavian ruler.

Thus only one of the four to make up Marie's League of Queens remains in power, and the dream of the Balkan queen fades into bitter disappointment.

UNCLE FRANK

Collin county. It is thought that his daughter, Mrs. F. M. Hunn was the first white girl baby born in Collin county. Col. Jack McGarrah came to Texas from Arkansas and was one of the first settlers in Collin county and the founder of old Buckner, 3 miles West of McKinney which was the fist county seat of Collin.

Mrs. Francis Marion Hunn was born May 5, 1842 about two and a half miles North of McKinney. She died in the same community, January 20, 1893 and was buried in the McLarry cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Hunn were the parents of six sons and four daughters who lived to be grown. Three others died in infancy or early childhood.

Those living are: Mrs. A. S. (Mat) Wheatley, of McKinney; Clay Feland Hunn, of Celina; Sallie Florence, Ludd Hunn, James Hunn of San Antonio, Wood Hunn, Barney Hunn, Joseph Waddill Hunn and Elma. The last named girl married Pete Younger of McKinney, with whom Uncle Frank is now making his home most of the time.

F. M. Hunn first came to Texas with his father, Dr. Anthony Hunn Jr. in 1849, the father coming here for his health and later returned to Missouri.

Like other young men of that time Francis Marion Hunn wanted action and got it along the border warfare along the Missouri and Kansas state borders during the years of 1855 and 1856. It was a bushwhacking war. The Southerners called the enemies "Jayhawkers" while the Northern people called the Southerners "Ruffians." The conflict seemed to have been over the free soil question.

Mr. Hunn says that he knew the noted John Brown's son, Jim, and saw him killed by a Baptist preacher, named Martin White. The difficulty grew out of the political questions of the day.

F. M. Hunn joined the Confederate army in Butler county, in November 1861 as First Lieutenant of Doak's Company, Peyton's regiment, Raines Brigade in which he served one year and then joined A. Jonnston's Spy company. The business of this spy company was to see what was ahead of the main army and it usually found out something. He remained with Johnson's Spy company for three years and surrendered at Pine Bluff, Arkansas.

He knew Cole Younger as a tall gangling boy who carried the mail in Bates county, Missouri as he went to school three miles below Liberty, Clay county, where the Youngers lived. He has stayed all night with Cole Younger's father before the war. The father of the Younger brothers lived in a large brick house and he was a fine old Southern gentleman.

Dr. Anthony Hunn Jr. owned 11,000 acres of land, 3 miles below East Fork bridge near McKinney. He did not keep it as it did not seem to be worth anything. Uncle Frank states that the people had a good time in those early days.

Uncle Frank states that Col. Jack McGarrah and his son-in-law, Tola Dunn, both went to California in 1849 in the gold rush and are thought to have died on the return trip home, in all probability of yellow fever.

We have a few more of the Limoges China Sandwich and Berry sets, that we offer for ten Aunt Betty or Ten Litebred wrappers and 79 cents.

BIG WHOLESALE GROCERS FORMER RESIDENTS HERE

J. P. Webster & Sons, wholesale groceries, recently purchased the Cisco house of the Wooten Grocery Co. and assumed charge of the same. The consideration was around $100,000. J. P. Webster & Sons own a string of twelve or fourteen wholesale grocery houses in Texas.

The business was established by the late Dr. J. P. Webster who passed away a few years ago. His sons are carrying on the business to even a larger success than it was in their father's life time.

Dr. J. P. Webster and family formerly lived in McKinney for several years where he has been in the retail grocery business near the Southwest corner of the public square. His children were all small men with the exception of the oldest son, Van Webster, who became a prominent business man of San Antonio and who later passed away in that city a few years ago.
